David Giroux is an associate in the New York office of Brewer, Attorney & Counselors.

Mr. Giroux has experience in civil and complex commercial litigation in state and federal court across a variety of practice areas, including mass torts (MDL and state mass tort programs), product liability, personal injury, bankruptcy and restructuring, breach of contract, and patent litigation. Additionally, he advises clients on regulatory compliance matters, as well as the development of internal policies and procedures in order to ensure compliance with regulatory and other legal obligations. He has represented clients from a broad range of industries, including pharmaceuticals and life sciences, private equity, and medical devices.

Prior to joining the firm, Mr. Giroux was an associate at Arnold & Porter Kaye Scholer LLP in New York, where his practice focused on commercial litigation, pharmaceutical mass torts, bankruptcy and restructuring, and life sciences patent litigation. Mr. Giroux also has a diverse pro bono practice. He represented state judges in Kansas in a lawsuit that preserved the independence of the state judiciary by successfully challenging the constitutionality of a law that significantly curtailed the power of the Kansas state court system to administer itself. More recently, he was a member of a legal team that successfully secured the exoneration and release of an undocumented immigrant in Florida who was wrongfully sentenced to death.

Mr. Giroux received his Juris Doctor degree from New York University School of Law in 2014 and received his bachelors' degrees in Economics and Marketing from The University of Utah.
