

B R E W E R

ATTORNEYS & COUNSELORS

Sarah B. Rogers
Partner

Sarah Rogers is a partner in the New York office of Brewer, Attorneys & Counselors. Her practice focuses on complex commercial, securities, and insolvency-related litigation and regulatory matters.

Ms. Rogers received her Juris Doctor degree from Columbia Law School in 2008, and her Bachelor of Arts degree in international relations from Dartmouth College in 2005. At Columbia, she served as a Staff Editor of the Journal of Transnational Law and was recognized as a Harlan Fiske Stone Scholar.

Before joining Brewer, Attorneys and Counselors, Ms. Rogers was an associate at Latham & Watkins LLP, where she represented clients in state, federal and bankruptcy court in a wide variety of cases. She also worked in-house for Philip Morris International, managing litigation and regulatory concerns in the Americas.

Ms. Rogers's representative matters include:

- Representation of Caesars Acquisition Corp. in connection with the Caesars bankruptcy;
- Representation of bondholders and administrative agents in various bankruptcy proceedings;
- Representation of an international investment bank in connection with government investigations, bondholder class actions, and other matters relating to residential mortgage-backed securities;
- Representation of senior executives of multiple global financial institutions in federal, state and regulatory investigations concerning potential violations of U.S. sanctions laws; and
- Representation of Ernst & Young in disputes concerning tax strategies.

Education

J.D., Columbia Law School, 2008

B.A. in International Relations, Dartmouth College, 2005

Bar Admissions

New York

United States District Court for the Southern District of New York

United States District Court for the Eastern District of New York

Contact

sbr@brewerattorneys.com

212.527.2587